Moncton Transportation Profile

Foreword

This Transportation Profile has been compiled to demonstrate the extensive network of transportation modes and facilities available to business and industry in the Greater Moncton Area. It was researched and assembled through the generous volunteer efforts of transportation professionals in collaboration with the Greater Moncton Chamber of Commerce and Moncton Industrial Development.

Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the contents, without overwhelming the reader with massive quantities of data. Should further information be required to supplement the material presented here, please contact Moncton Industrial Development (MID), at 857-0700, or the Atlantic Provinces Transportation Commission, at 857-2820.

Moncton Industrial Development Limited is a wholly-owned agency of the City of Moncton. Incorporated in 1959, its purpose is to foster and promote the city's economic and industrial development.

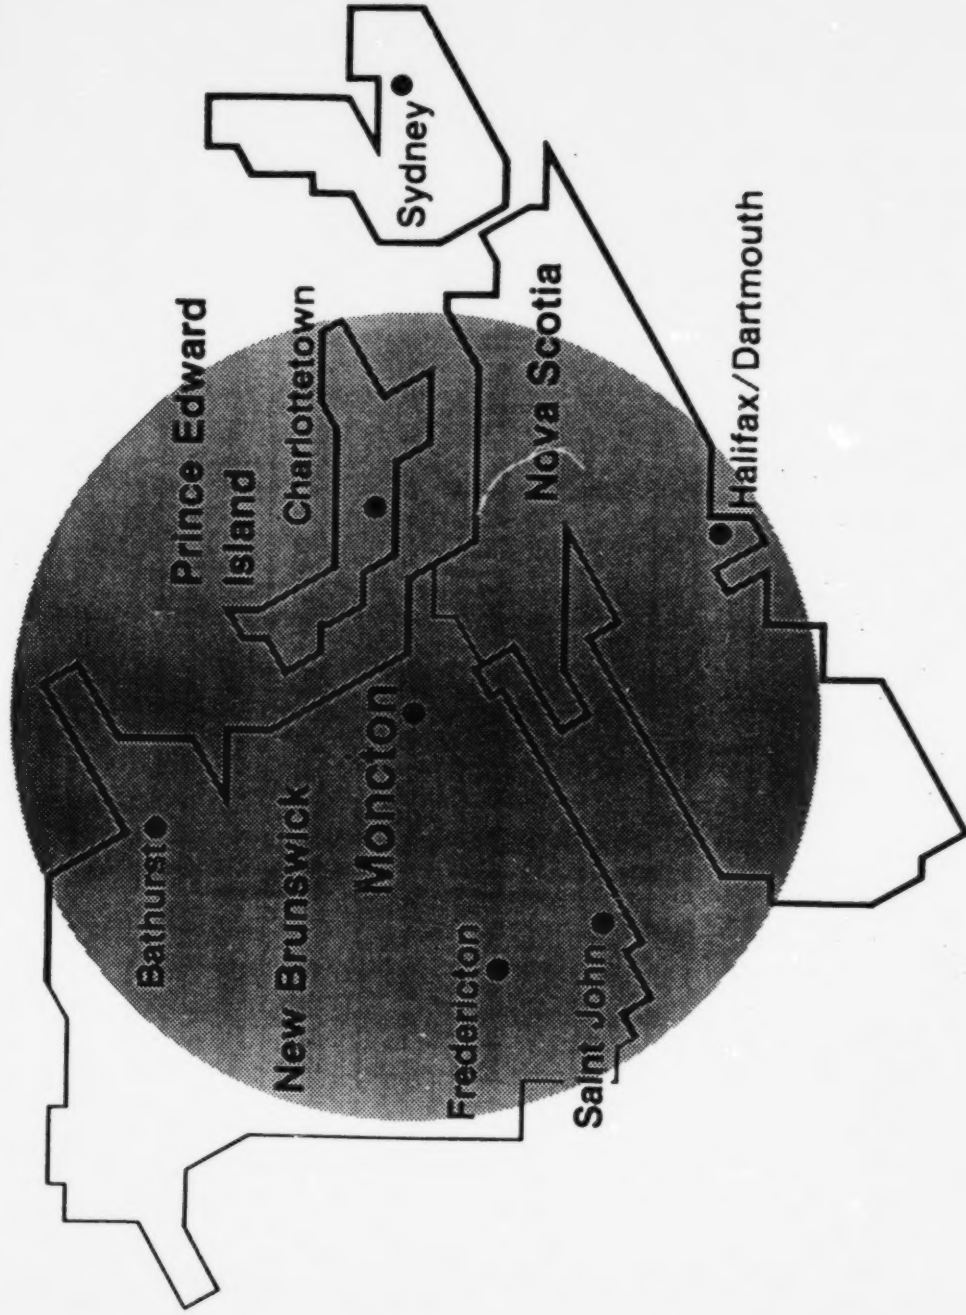

We appreciate your interest in our area, and feel confident that you will enjoy doing business in Greater Moncton.

Moncton-The Centre of Atlantic Canada.

Introduction

There is no doubt that Moncton deserves the title "the Hub City". This dynamic Atlantic business centre is located only forty miles from the geographic centre of Canada's Maritime Provinces. Ever since the arrival of the railroad in 1872, Moncton has been the key transportation centre of the Maritimes. Road, rail, and air transportation routes radiate from the city in all directions. Its strategic location makes it the most efficient place from which to serve the profitable markets of Atlantic Canada.

The metropolitan area known as Greater Moncton is a major centre for financial, manufacturing, distribution, and service sectors. Government, educational, and medical institutions contribute to a diversified economic base, as does a thriving tourism and recreation industry. Greater Moncton combines the City of Moncton, the Towns of Riverview and Dieppe, and the rural Parish of Moncton, for a population of 87,464. Including surrounding communities, the total population of the Moncton Census Agglomeration, as determined by Statistics Canada in 1986, was 102,084.

Moncton lies at the centre of a $13.5 billion retail market. Approximately 1.4 million people live within three hours' driving time, making it the largest retail centre in Atlantic Canada, by a significant margin. It is no surprise to find some of eastern Canada's most modern shopping centres here, including the newly expanded Champlain Place in Dieppe, and the mammoth Real Atlantic Superstore complex, adjacent to downtown Moncton. Downtown revitalization has brought new life to the city centre in recent years. Office developments such as the new Blue Cross Centre are attracting increasing numbers of companies to locate their regional head offices in Moncton.

The Greater Moncton area has three major industrial parks. The largest and most successful in New Brunswick, occupied by over 200 firms, is Moncton Industrial Park. The others are Caledonia Industrial Estates, adjacent to the Trans-Canada Highway, and Dieppe Industrial Park near the Moncton Airport.

Moncton's importance as a manufacturing centre is shown by the presence of companies like Bristol-Myers of Canada, Domglas, Domtar Packaging, Hub Meat Packers, Twinpak Atlantic, and Web Offset. Its central location has encouraged the development of extensive warehousing and transportation networks and services. Atlantic Wholesalers, Canada Packers, Chrysler Canada, Co-Op Atlantic, General Foods, General Motors, Harding Carpets, Imperial Oil, Imperial Tobacco, Martin Brower (McDonald's Restaurants), Robin Hood Multifoods, and Westinghouse Canada are some of the national companies which use Moncton as a major warehousing centre.

Public warehousing organizations such as Associated Freezers of Canada, Geldart's Warehouse & Cartage, KN Distribution Services, Livingston Distribution Centres, Modern Warehousing, Riverside Warehousing, and Wallace Warehouse and Cartage provide Moncton with more public warehousing facilities than any other centre in the Atlantic Provinces.

Central location, up-to-date infrastructure, a diversified business community: these attributes make Moncton the preferred choice of companies that are concerned with providing efficient customer service while saving distribution dollars. Add topnotch community services, superb recreational opportunities, a comfortably relaxed lifestyle, and you have a good idea of the reasons Moncton is becoming the Atlantic business centre for the 90's, and beyond.

Transportation Assistance Programs

Atlantic Freight Assistance Program:

Products manufactured or produced in the Atlantic Provinces and shipped to markets in this region, or elsewhere in Canada, are eligible for reduced transportation charges under the federally funded Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program. Transportation companies carrying such products reduce their charges to the shipper and are reimbursed by the federal government. The program is authorized under the federal Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927, and the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act of 1969. It provides for a reduction on rail and truck shipments from the Atlantic region to other parts of Canada of 30% on that portion of the transportation charge which is attributed to the distance travelled within the Atlantic region. Additionally, shipments of selected products which have had the maximum degree of processing or "value added" in this region are eligible for a further reduction of 20%. Shipments by marine or air carriers are also eligible under the existing program. Within the Atlantic region, selected products moving by rail, road, sea, or air carriers are eligible for a 10% reduction off the carrier's published rates.

In recent years, payments under this program have been in excess of $60 million. To determine the eligibility of specific commodities for transportation assistance, or for other information, contact the Atlantic Provinces Transportation Commission, P.O. Box 577, Moncton, N.B., E1C 8L9, telephone (506) 857-2820.

Physical Distribution Advisory Service:

This agency was created in 1974 on the recommendation of the Federal/Provincial Committee on Atlantic Region Transportation. It lends assistance and consultative expertise to industries and/or individual companies within the Atlantic region on problems relating to physical distribution, and promotes general awareness of the importance of the physical distribution function. Physical Distribution Advisory Service can be reached at 236 St. George St, Suite 315, Moncton, N.B. E1C 1W1; telephone: (506) 857-4160.

Highway Transportation

Location is the key to Moncton's pre-eminence as a transportation and distribution centre. In an age of extensive truck transport, Moncton's location on the Trans-Canada Highway is critically important. First-class road connections link Moncton with Atlantic Canada's two major container ports: Saint John, a mere 90 minutes away; and Halifax, at a driving distance of only three hours.

A large number of highway carriers connect Moncton daily with destinations throughout the Atlantic Provinces, and with points across Canada and the United States. Overnight service is provided for LTL and TL shipments to many large communities in Atlantic Canada, in addition to the numerous small package and pool car services outlined on page 18.

Direct service by numerous regional, inter-regional, and international carriers means that single-carrier through service is available between Moncton and all major centres in North America.

Companies which operate "for-hire" motor carriage within the Maritimes are subject to the Motor Carrier Act of the province in which operations are carried out. If activities extend across provincial boundaries, the carrier is regulated under the federal Motor Vehicle Transport Act. For the Greater Moncton area, motor carrier regulation falls under the jurisdiction of the Motor Carrier Board of New Brunswick.

The wide range of highway carriers serving the Greater Moncton area is clearly illustrated in the table on the following pages.

Rail Transportation

Canadian railway transport is dominated by two transcontinental systems, supplemented by regional railways in the provinces of Ontario and British Columbia. The federally-owned Canadian National system is the larger of the two major companies, operating over 2,000 power units and 95,000 pieces of freight equipment on some 40,000 km of track. CN Rail serves all ten provinces, and 17 states in the busy central U.S. industrial region.

Canadian National is a major economic force in the Greater Moncton area, employing approximately 2300 people and providing pension income to about another 2,000.

Moncton is the focal point for rail transportation activity in Atlantic Canada, with rail lines radiating outwards to Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, central Canada, and the USA. Throughout Greater Moncton, miles of spur lines and sidings serve the industries of the area. Extensive rail networks are in place in the Moncton, Caledonia, and Dieppe industrial parks.

The 830-acre Gordon Yard, an electronic classification facility capable of handling 3,500 cars a day with total storage capacity for about 5,000 units, is located on the edge of the Moncton Industrial Park. About 2,000 cars and 22 trains are handled here in an average day.

The CN Work Equipment Shop on Killam Drive is the heart of track maintenance operations in the Atlantic region. Recently renovated and expanded, it handles both regular maintenance and major overhauls of all railway work equipment and machinery.

On a 19-acre site on Main Street, adjacent to the main line track, is the CN Rail Auto-Handling Compound, with a capacity of up to 2,700 new vehicles arriving by rail and destined for distribution by highway carrier to dealerships throughout the Maritimes. About 60,000 vehicles are handled annually.

In addition, Moncton is the location for a variety of other vitally important CN Rail services. It is the major mainland trans-shipment terminal for domestic containers of 20- and 40-foot sizes.

The Cargo-flo terminal in Moncton provides for transfer of both liquid and dry bulk products, from rail tanker cars to highway carriers, for local distribution.

Moncton is the major Intermodal Terminal for CN Rail's piggyback operation by which trailers and containers on fast intermodal trains from central Canada are trans-shipped from rail to highway for re-routing, via tractor-trailer to southern New Brunswick, northern Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island.

The CN Communications office is located adjacent to the CN Rail Terminal Building. It is the headquarters for the company in the Maritime Provinces. The operation maintains a sales staff, in addition to technical and administrative personnel. In all, about 50 people are employed.

Finally, the head offices of Marine Atlantic are located in Moncton, just a block away from the CN Terminal Building. Here are located the planning and management arms of the principal marine ferry service in the region, serving routes between New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island; Nova Scotia and Maine (USA); Nova Scotia and Newfoundland; New Brunswick and Nova Scotia (Saint John-Digby); and the Newfoundland and Labrador Coastal Services.

Rail Passenger Service

VIA Rail Canada Inc. is a crown corporation created by the government of Canada in 1978 to provide a national rail passenger service. VIA offers intercity, transcontinental, regional, and remote rail passenger services to an average of close to 20,000 passengers on more than 140 trains daily.

VIA offers a wide range of on-board services. Most local inter-city trains provide food and beverage service, while long-distance trains offer full service including food, beverage, lounge and sleeping accommodation. Within the Maritimes, VIA currently serves the following routes:

- Moncton - Campbellton
- Moncton - Edmundston
- Moncton - Charlottetown (bus)
- Moncton - Montreal (via Campbellton)
- Halifax - Moncton-Saint John
- Halifax - Moncton- Montreal (via Saint John)
- Halifax - Sydney
- Halifax - Port Hawkesbury
- Halifax - Yarmouth

There are a total of 12 daily arrivals and departures at Moncton, plus the tri-weekly service between Moncton and Edmundston. In 1984, some 283,000 passengers were handled at the Moncton station.

Rail travellers can obtain more information by contacting their nearest travel agent, the VIA Rail Canada office in Moncton (506) 853-8012, or toll-free by dialing 1-800-561-3952.

Air Transportation

The Moncton airport, owned and operated by Transport Canada, is one of Atlantic Canada's busiest. Air Canada, Air Nova, and Air Atlantic/Canadian Airlines/Inter Canadian provide extensive regional passenger and cargo services, as well as frequent flights to Halifax, Montreal, Toronto and Boston to connect with transcontinental and international routes.

The Moncton Flying Club, founded in 1929, operates the second largest flight school in Canada, and holds the distinction of a Class "A" rating from Transport Canada. Its pilots provide a superb charter service between Moncton and points throughout the region and across Canada.

Transport Canada's Area Control Centre, in Riverview, is responsible for the control of all air traffic operating on instrument flight plans, and on certain visual flight plans, within the air space of the Maritimes and Labrador. In practical terms, in 1986, this meant providing service for 244,076 domestic flights and North Atlantic flights.

Ground Transportation

Municipal Public Transportation

Greater Moncton's Public Transit Authority is the Codiac Transit Commission. Its name is derived from the Petiscodiac River, which borders the three municipalities of Moncton, Riverview, and Dieppe. The Transit Commission is directed by a nine-member board appointed by the municipal councils of the participating communities.

Codiac Transit provides urban public transportation services to a population of 80,000 people, serving all residential and business centres within the three municipalities. Regular bus service operates from 6:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Evening service is available on Thursday and Friday until 11:00 p.m. The standard fare is currently 75¢ per trip, with discounts available for seniors, students and children. Schedules are available without charge from the Codiac Transit Commission, 280 Pacific Avenue, Moncton, NB E1E 2G8.

Inter-City Bus Service

SMT (Eastern) Limited provides inter-city bus service every day to all Maritime points, with connections to destinations throughout North America.

Taxi Service

Greater Moncton is served by a number of taxi companies. All drivers are licensed municipally, and rates and standards are established and monitored by the three municipal councils. Airport taxi and limousine services are available from all major hotels and motels. Small parcel and envelope pick-up and delivery services are also provided by the taxi companies, at reasonable cost. All companies offer 24-hour, radio-dispatched service.

The Warehouse Industry

Warehousing has been described as "transportation at zero miles per hour", and "arrested transportation". A modern warehouse facility permits users to realize economies of scale by making a few, large volume shipments to a strategic distribution centre within a market region, rather than having to make many small shipments to individual customers. Warehousing falls into three main categories:

A. Security Warehouses

Facilities to protect goods from loss or theft. Examples of this type are household goods warehouses, record repositories, and vaults.

B. Production Warehouses

- Facilities designed with the storage capacity to handle long production runs, and to meet the seasonal and/or special handling requirements of manufacturers.

C. Distribution Warehouses

Facilities which blend the dynamic functions of movement and mixing. Products often arrive in large volume lots to be broken down and assigned to the mixed, individual orders required by customers. This type of operation is integrally related to transportation, and may be very sophisticated in its methods of storing, handling, and tracking shipments.

Moncton has a first class warehousing sector, providing state-of-the-art facilities to users of its services. The city's location at the "Hub of the Maritimes" affords shippers and distributors the full benefits of transportation economies and efficient customer service. Greater Moncton's three modern industrial parks are prime locations for companies wishing to gain strategic access to the Maritime marketplace.

The following are just a few of the hundreds of companies which have already chosen Moncton as their distribution/manufacturing centre:

*Canadian Warehousing Association Code of Ethics

As a member of the Canadian Warehousing Association, we subscribe without reservation to the following principles, which are inherent in ethical and sound business practice:

- We shall serve our customers with efficiency and skill.
- We shall be honest, and endeavour to be accurate, in our written and verbal representations to the public and to our business associates.
- We shall outline clearly to our customers, in advance of performance of any service, the mutual responsibilities and limits of liability involved in the performance of that service.
- We shall adhere to the letter and intent of contractual obligations
- We shall meet all financial responsibilities within appropriate time limits.
- We shall charge for our services on a basis equitable to our customers and ourselves.
